Relationship Types

One Way – a product code assigned as a one-way relationship will show as a related product at the bottom of the product code page it has been assigned to.

Two Way – a product code assigned as a two-way relationship will show as a related product at the bottom of the product code page it has been assigned to AND the product code it has been assigned to will show as a related product at the bottom of the product page that was assigned.

Important! For the following two relationship types to work properly, the product code page template must not be set to standard. You must use the template DefaultWithAddOns or FullDayWithAddOns.

One Way Add On – this relationship type will add the related product code as an optional one way add on, where it will be visible as a checkbox with rates (from integraRental) showing on the product code page, so a user could easily add on equipment they might need and helping you upsell.

One Way Required – this will add the related product as a required add on that will automatically be added to the cart for checkout (including any rates attached to it) when an asset is added to cart.
