Category Pages - eRental

You can use customize category pages with text, photos, links, product carousels, videos, and more depending on your level of html/css coding skill. It is easy to customize the category pages with no knowledge of coding.

Category Pages may contain customizations as well as thumbnails of sub-categories nested within them, and/or product code page thumbnails.

Attribute Filters Tab – this tab enables you to showcase product code attributes as "Promoted Attributes." By moving an attribute from the left side to the right side, that attribute will show on the product code page and allow filtering of product code page thumbnails based on the attributes assigned. For example, if this Aerial Lift page were a scissor lift page, and the scissor lifts each had a height range attribute assigned to them, then a user could filter the scissor lifts by height if you have several product code pages. See the guide on How to Set Up Product Filters for Category Pages for more information.

Images Tab – Here you can upload both a large image and a small image. When you upload a large image, it is shown above the custom content added to the landing page (next tab over). Our customers typically don't use the large image here, but it is available. The small image, when uploaded, is what shows on the category thumbnail (when it exists as a subcategory or in the mega menu). SEO alt image text may be added for the images.

Landing Page Tab – this section allows you to utilize two different modules with your choice between none, product carousel slider, or text. When the none radial button is selected, no content will be shown on the category page after publishing. When the Slider radial button is selected, you may choose from a drop-down menu of product groups to showcase it's assigned product code pages as a product carousel – this is typically not used by our customers on category pages (typically only used on the site's main landing page). When the text radial button is selected, as shown in the above image, you may use the rich text editor to add/customize styling of text, add images, links, and more.

Included on all of the rich text editors is a button, shown below, that allows you to view/modify the html of that section. On the aerial lift page's first module, we actually have two images. One image will only show only on desktop view and the other image will only show on mobile view.

For those with HTML/CSS skills, the sky is the limit on the customizations you can add to the category page's customizable section.

Once you've finished making changes to a category page, click the Save and Publish buttons in the top right corner of the page and then you'll be able to view the updates on your eRental site. You may need to execute a hard refresh (CTRL+F5) on the category page to view any changes. If you don't see the changes after that, try clearing your cache and cookies or opening the site in an incognito tab.

If you are making a lot of changes you can always save and move on to the next thing and then run a full site publish after you've completed and saved all of your changes..
